

What we offer:

We will educate and help empower you so that you feel comfortable about making a truly informed decision regarding the course of your cancer treatments, whether you decide to go the conventional, integrative or alternative route.

This includes going over your medical records and reports in detail, discussing the findings with you and answering all questions related to your diagnosis and previous and proposed treatments.

We will also discuss the pros and cons of all treatment options before, during and after conventional therapies, to include conventional, complementary and alternative options.

And ultimately we will aid in developing your personalized plan of action.

Dr. Petra Ketterl, MD

Medical Oncologist

Integrative and Functional Medicine Oncology Consultant

About Dr Ketterl

After undergraduate studies in microbiology at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville , Dr Ketterl graduated from East Tennessee State University College of Medicine with an MD (medical doctor) degree in 1990. She then completed 3 years of Internal Medicine residency training followed by further specialization with a Fellowship in Medical Oncology. She was in private practice in Morristown, TN for close to 10 years and then was asked to join Cancer Treatment Centers of America (CTCA) in Tulsa, Oklahoma where she remained working as a medical/ integrative oncologist for 15 years. Most recently, she joined an alternative health clinic in Atlanta, GA for a short time and is now supporting and consulting with cancer patients in East Tennessee and Atlanta. Dr Ketterl has extensive experience lecturing on evidence-based Complementary and Alternative Medicine in cancer as well as aiding in clinical research.

.As a fellowship-trained medical oncologist, Dr Ketterl's work in both conventional as well as alternative medicine makes her uniquely qualified to advise you on a personal and integrative approach to your cancer.

Why Integrative Oncology?

Dr Ketterl has always been interested in integrative methods and treatments which aim to combine the best of conventional as well as complementary and alternative medicine. She was born and raised in Germany, where some of the most cutting edge complementary cancer treatments in the world have been pioneered and investigated. She returns to Germany on a regular basis for further education, training and networking with fellow practitioners from all over the world. Dr Ketterl has also always worked very closely with the naturopathic and mind-body staff during her years at CTCA, helping to integrate naturopathy, acupuncture, nutrition and mind-body medicine with conventional chemotherapy, radiation and surgery. She also has received certified training in TCM, specifically acupuncture, as well as extensive training in Integrative and Functional Medicine especially in Oncology.

Patient Empowerment

Dr Ketterl believes that cancer is best managed by considering conventional as well as complementary and alternative options for a true integrative treatment approach. The first step, and very important part of cancer care, is education. It is the cornerstone of empowering patients to reach their goals and better understand his/ her condition and especially ALL available options.
